

A Salute to the police of San Jose

Fortitude:

In a legal environment where justice depends on properly crossing the I's and dotting the T's, the San Jose police not only have their punctuation right, they have attained the skills necessary to get around such obstructions to justice as the Bill of Rights and the state and federal constitutions.

Efficiency:

Instead of waiting for a crime to be committed and the damage to be done, San Jose police have discovered that with entrapment that they can arrest and convict the people now, who sometime in the future might actually break the law on their own.

Teamwork:

By working with a Federal task force, San Jose's Finest are able to hide evidence from a state "Discovery" motion; evidence that might have let the guilty go free.

Cost savings:

San Jose police are saving the tax payer millions of dollars by avoiding the costs of trials through the triple whammy of keeping the obviously guilty in jail as long as possible before trial, hiding and falsifying evidence to prevent the line between good and evil from becoming fuzzy, and then offering the defendant a plea bargain of time served for a "No Contest" plea when he or she was facing a ten year prison sentence.

Everybody knows that the only defendants that accept plea bargains are those that know they are guilty, or those that know that the outcome of a trial will have little to do with their real guilt or innocence.

and to our Legislators and Judges who have given the police all the power.

The Laws:

Carefully written laws that claim to be harsh on emotional issues such as "child abuse" or "drugs", and that give judges and juries lots of discretionary power of interpretation and that allow harsh sentences, are extremely powerful tools in the hands of our police since even the "innocent" won't know for sure that they'll get off.

For example, these laws are being used to punish defiant parents who would choose to raise their children in some alternate life style instead of our "God sanctioned, Government approved" life style. Toward that goal, our legislators have now succeeded in making it a felony for a parent to give their teenager certain "politically incorrect" advice about sex.

Other statutes help in this effort by making it a felony to "Offer" or "Attempt" (read: "talk about" or "intend") to commit a felony. This opens up all kinds of possibilities of entrapment by telephone, where our San Jose police can then use their editing skills to make the needed changes to the tape recordings of the phone calls to best help in bringing these deviants to justice.

The finality of the Plea Bargain:

The Plea Bargain is a true work of art. While at first appearing to be soft on crime, it in fact, suckers the defendant into giving up all his rights to appeal, in exchange for a light sentence. As a result, the laws and procedure used to catch these criminals are never challenged in higher court and thereby remain on the books.

In addition, after accepting the plea bargain, the defendant loses his rights to discovery, thereby allowing the courts to hide any loose ends that might otherwise reveal the true workings of the criminal justice system.
