

Sunday, January 3, 1993

America's Funniest People

* Vin Di Bona Productions
4151 Prospect Avenue
Producer's Building
Hollywood, California 90027

Dear Script Writer (or Script Writers, as the case may be)

Audience is a singular noun. You have to say:

"The audience has made its decision."

← Correct!

or

"The members of the audience have made their decisions."

← Correct!

You don't say

"The audience has made their decision."

← Not Correct!

How do you expect people to learn to communicate when media personalities give them such poor examples? You guys write for a living. You should be ashamed of yourselves.

Sincerely,

Sam A Milam III

Sam A. Milam, III
Box 21633
San Jose, California 95151